The wreckage has not been found, but all passengers on board Flight CW0764 have been presumed dead following a crash in the Amazon region. Six months later, the voice of a little girl named Melanie, a victim of the catastrophe, bursts onto the airwaves with a mayday message on the radio programme on which her father, Javier, works... At the same time, Erik, a commercial airline pilot, uncovers certain confidential information about the plane on which his girlfriend Natalie lost her life... In a desperate attempt to discover the truth, both men travel immediately to Peru, where their paths will cross. The countdown begins. Is there something hidden, something that nobody wants revealed under any circumstances? Could the link between parent and child continue even after death? What is the jungle hiding? And, most importantly of all, how many lies are hidden behind what happened?
