This is the story of Mano Verde (Green Hand), a cheerful and creative hand who used to get together every Sunday with other hands to do what she likes best - chatting to her friends and painting in the Painting Cave - until problems at school led to her becoming distant and forgetting about the things she loved. Mano Verde lost her spark and no longer enjoyed skipping rope, painting or going to school. What could have happened to make her shy away from the things that made her happy? How can the others help her to get past this bad patch? Go with Mano Verde and her friends to the Painting Cave and learn with them habits and behaviours to make you stronger and help you to be happy. The Painting Cave is a simple book that provides concepts and tools to build empathy and behaviour that prevent bullying at school.
