This is the story of Incomplete, a tiny little village lost at the very top of a hill and surrounded by sharp, pointy mountains. In Incomplete nobody is welcome. This picture book, intended to carry many levels of meaning, is constructed like a collage and allows several interpretations and routes through depending on age, comprehension, how children wish to express themselves and the way of reading. It is a highly useful tool for a shared reading experience and in the interpretation of different meanings, through its access to the symbolic via the use of images.
