Written by a specialist in child psychology, this book is aimed at boys and girls aged from 2 to 6 years old. Dani wants to do and eat whatever she wants and she ignores adults. Have you ever behaved badly? Do you want to learn the most important rules for behaving well? A child has to learn how to accept frustration and defer rewards. They must share their toys and understand that for play you often need other people. Nobody wants selfish children or dictators, but parents are responsible for making sure this doesn't happen. We have to set an example and show our children that the important thing is not the "I", but the "you" and the "we". This story provides clear, simple, and fun language from Dani's interactive, fun adventures. It contains elements that help us to understand the difficult situation the main character is going through.
