2012

Season: SPRING 2012

In this book, the youngest children will learn how to follow instructions in a fun way. On each page, the Three Baby Triplets explain and illustrate a situation, and the reader is also asked to interact with the book: to blow, to scratch an object in drawing, to clap... On the following page, the child will see the consequences of their actions.

Educational and pedagogical values: this book has been devised for children to learn how to follow instructions and to discover the relationship between cause and effect. They will also focus on the details of the illustrations and learn new vocabulary which they'll be able to remember at the same time as having fun.
