Everything that happens in the present is derived from the past, and for that reason, knowledge of that past is essential if we wish to construct the future on a solid basis. These are the two central ideas of this book. We must understand the reason for our situation, assume our responsibility and add our own effort, our own dream and even our courage to change the situation. Because it is clear that this, as the title suggests, is our way out . But we have to know where we came in and assume that if we do nothing, let things go on working in the same old way, we are on route to worse data and more suffering. We cannot expect the political classes alone take responsibility for the necessary changes. Society must take an active role and be the true owner of his fate. That is the challenge. And this book aims to contribute to it's attainment."
