Season: SPRING 2012

What is life like for a polar fox, a polar bear or a penguin? You've been asking the question for years. Well, they eat, they look for food and they try not to be eaten. When you live in the South Pole you spend your time surviving. Especially if one of your best friends happens to be an enormous (and hungry) polar bear. Oh, you also have to spend time on girls, too.

Mike Bonales' hilarious online comic 'South Pole' is finally brought together here in one big, frosty collection. Which means more black humour from Bonales, who uses characters from the animal kingdom to make light of the fundamentals of life. Absurd and witty -- for children as much as for adults.
